Note From the General Manager's Office

Happy Friday!

We hope everyone had a safe, fantastic holiday season and a happy New Year's as well. We're very much looking forward to some excellent things coming up for 2023.

On that list are two updates to management and operations.

First, we're extremely excited to announce that Michele Kellogg will be handling lifestyle events for the community. While she will have more than a few other operational duties, she'll be heading up events for 2023, and I can tell you she already has some fresh ideas to bring to the table so you'll really want to stay informed about what's happening in the community this year.

Second, we're thrilled to announce that Amy Hendrickson will be moving into a new executive customer service role where she will oversee customer service and reservations, along with executive administrative assistant duties, project duties, and more. Improved customer service is going to be a significant focus for the upcoming year and Amy's background has her well prepared to hit the ground running.

Generally speaking, all the department heads are hard at work reviewing their sphere of operations to identify areas of improvement ahead of the upcoming budget season so each department is as well equipped and prepared as possible to bring a new level of excellence to the community.

Congratulations again to Amy and Michele for stepping up to take on new roles and responsibilities. In addition, the rest of the team is ready to take on new challenges in the year ahead as well, so join us in looking forward to what we hope is a wonderful 2023 for everyone.

Best Regards,

Racey Cave

Be a part of something big

Coosawattee River Resort is the largest community in Gilmer County and the biggest contributor to the county's property tax base. If you would enjoy being part of something big, we probably have a spot for you. From applying for a Board of Directors seat or a committee position, to joining the Good Neighbor Club, to participating in card groups or water aerobics, this issue has many ways for you to connect.

A Message From Your Environmental Committee

Some folks believe the winter landscape is brown, drab and boring. Nothing could be further from the truth. Now is a perfect time to size up what can be added to your landscape to provide winter interest for humans and wildlife! Winter interest includes texture, color, form and beauty. Some of the native plants listed below provide much needed winter nutrition for birds and other wildlife. The ornamental grasses not only look great while dormant, but they also provide shelter and food for songbirds. How about a fragrant shrub for winter? Witch Hazel is a winner! Check out the different varieties that bloom in fall or winter into early spring. Other ideas are listed below. Plan now so you can plant in early spring! Click any of the links below for more info!
